Saturday's game between the Wheeling tions had made very dear. During last Freen Stockings and the Bells of Pitta fions had made very dear. During last of February three genteel appearing men is canvassed that section, according to the story, enquiring at every house, if the occupants had any pictures of dear friends that they desired enlarged. The men claimed to be agents sent out by the is Standard Copying Company of Pitteburgh. Anxious to advertise the company's business they offered to do the work free of charge, merely asking for an advance of 40 or 50 conts to pay express charges when the enlarged picture should be returned in a neat frame, which was also to be given free. The pictures were to be returned in March. The men handed printed cards around freely, and when it was intimated that they were swinders they disclaimed the insinuation warmly and vowed that were they to do as they were, without the proper authority, that the company would isn't them in the penitentiary for forgory. In this way they collected quite a sum of money and a number of photographs of Iriends that are dead and gone. There is probably no such firm as the one named, it in Pittsburgh. February three genteel appearing men burgh was the most interesting so far this Stockings. They covered the bases and willow with better effect. The catching of Westtake was one of the features, and his stopping of several wild pitches of Mallory was loudly applauded. Although both Dunn and Mallory were hit pretty freely they were supported well, the fielding beng very sharp. Dunn carried off the batting honors making a two baser and a long drive for three bags. Dudley covered second base in fine style. His catch of a hot liner and his double play to first base elicited the applause of the spectators. Saturday was Balley's first appearance in the field and what he had to do was done well. The attendance was about 700. Following is the score in detail:

Mr. Stone's death removes from Wheeling one of her o'dest and beat known citizons. As a man of business, he was nearly always successful. The money he made represents a confortable fortune, a goodly portion of which is invested in real estate. While prospering in business he did not forget the cause of Christianity. He was one of the most notive, never-tiring church members hereabouts. He was a member and a regularly ordained minister of the Methodist church, and may be said to have been one of the founders and pillars of the Thomson M. E. church on the Island. His labors in behalf of that congregation were continual.

He was married in 1846 to Miss Elizabeth Thomas, who survives him, also their seven children—three daughters and four cons. A sketch of his career is as follows: He was born in November, 1819, in Enfeid, Maseachusetts, and came to the Ohio valley in 1833. He first located in Masde county, Ohio, where he taught school. In 1830 he rapposed to Wheelingard Levels and the proposed to Wheelingard.

In 1846 he located in the city permanently, going into the dry goods store of Goodridge & Co. Later he was taken in as a partner, but soon sold out. In September, 1847, deceased embarked in the dry goods business with Mr. Thomas, locating on Main street, nearly opposite the present store of Stone & Thomas. Two years later the firm clossed to the east side of the street, and has since occupied the same premises.
